A first attempt at recording a certain class of literature cannot be entirely successful. While completeness is not claimed for the present list, the compiler hopes that it may serve as a fairly reliable guide to bibliographical literature. Certain limitations have been placed on the work. Bibliographies published in periodical publications have been recorded only when they could be found without too laborious a search; chapters and parts of bibliographies dealing with general or special bibliography have not been included except in one or two cases which seemed specially important, and it has not been the intention to include lists of manuscript catalogues. Both fuller and more frequent notes and references to book reviews would have been desirable. Fear of making the pamphlet too bulky, as well as doubt as to his competence to make authoritative notes in all cases, and lack of time to search for the book reviews are offered by the compiler as reasons for their omission. Should a second edition be called for, it is hoped that these deficiencies may be remedied.

Wherever a book has been found in any Chicago library it has been personally examined and collated. Such titles are marked with a * before the running number. Some titles have been copied and collated at the New York State Library School at Albany. The compiler is also indebted for many courtesies to members of the staffs of the Newberry and Chicago Public Libraries, particularly to Mr. Carl B. Roden of the Public Library.

In the case of books not personally examined the size has been indicated by the standard form notations nearly universally used for this purpose in bibliographical work. But in the case of books collated by the compiler the actual measurements of the letter-press have been indicated in centimeters.

The total number of titles is 156, No. 109 being skipped in numbering.

Bibliotheca bibliothecarum curis secundis auctior. Accedit Bibliotheca nummaria in duas partes tributa. . . . Curâ et studio R. P. PHILIPPI LABBE, S. J. Parisiis, apud Ludovicum Billaine, MDCLXIV.

[32], 394 p. 4°.

Ottino & Fumagalli. The title seems to indicate an earlier edition, and Graesse mentions one: Paris, 1653. Sommervogel, however, says that the edition of 1664 is the second edition of his "Nova bibliotheca mss. librorum . . .," 1657. He gives the following as title of the edition of 1664, but taken from a prospectus of several works which Labbe intended to publish: "Bibliotheca bibliothecarum pernecessaria omnibus bibliothecariis, siue Catalogus bibliothecarum, catalogorum, nomenclatorum, indicum, elenchorum, elogiorum etc. quibus scriptores ecclesiastici et profani, veteres ac novi, in quavis arte ac professione præcipui, et libri fermé omnes, partim editi, partim inediti repræsentantur." In addition to this he also quotes the title as here given; he gives the size as 8°.

Other editions were published in 1672 and 1678; as these are called "editio secunda" and "tertia" respectively, the edition of 1653 seems doubtful.

398 p. 8°.

Graesse gives 1682 as the date of this "editio III auctior." Jöcher says that Teissier republished the book in 1686 under the title "Catalogus auctorum etc."; but according to Petzholdt it was only the Bibliotheca nummaria that he republished. Graesse gives both Labbe's and Teissier's bibliographies, but knows seemingly of no connection between them.

This work, the result of 25 years of research, is the first attempt at a complete and systematic bibliography of bibliographies, and is to this day the most complete record of bibliographical work up to the year of its publication. It is still valuable, not only as a list, but for its critical and descriptive notes. It is minutely classified, with full author index.

—Supplément. | Paris | Em. Terquem | 1887.

[2], 354 p. 19x13 cm.

This work is of comparatively slight value in spite of the vast material it contains. It is very uncritical, and gives in most cases no hint as to the whereabouts of bibliographical material in the books referred to. The alphabetical arrangement by authors, even with the subject index, makes the work difficult to consult. May be a useful basis for a more scholarly work.

Manuels de bibliographie historique.—II. | Manuel | de | bibliographie générale | (Bibliotheca bibliographica nova) | par | M. HENRI STEIN. | Paris | Alphonse Picard et fils | 1897.

The chief value of this work lies in its recent date and amount of material. In method it is inferior, and shows clear signs of haste in the final preparation for the printer. Collations and dates are too often inaccurate. It is superior to Vallée, but if the author thinks that no previous bibliographies of bibliographies, including Petzholdt, deserve to be mentioned in his book, because entirely superseded by the same, he acts with a conceit unworthy of a scholar. The book is classified, with a scheme of the classification given in the preface, without page references, however. The lack of an author index must be keenly felt by anyone who wishes to consult this work.

Important additions and corrections have been made in the following reviews of the work:

By H. C. BOLTON and C. MARTEL in Publishers' weekly. Vol. LV, p. 386-389. New York 1899.

By F. J. TEGGART in Library journal. Vol. 24, p. 73-75. New York 1899.
